

Covenant Breast Health Program's Annual Women's Cancer Survivors Event

In 1999, Heidi sought out her birth family to find out about her health history. What she did not expect was that she would find a sister – Jen! Their bond was instant and they both fully embraced their relationship. Then over the course of 5 years, they were both diagnosed with breast cancer. The news accelerated as they learned they carry the BRCA 2 Breast Cancer Gene which puts them and potentially their children at greater risk for future cancers.

Heidi and Jen have entirely different coping techniques which proves there are many paths to healing. Their presentation is powerful, natural, fluid and straight from the heart.

You should prepare for a wild ride of emotions as you laugh, cry and celebrate life! These sisters will always have their "skin tight jeans" and their "skin tight genes" to get them through tough times.

Wednesday, October 2, 2013

Horizons Conference Center
6200 State Street, Saginaw

A Pampered Health Fair prior to the event will give attendees the opportunity to talk to health care professionals about cancer, mammograms, nutrition, exercise and more.

- 5:00 pm Pampered Health Fair with Light Refreshments and Cash Bar
- 5:50 pm Introductions by Sussan Bays, MD, FACS
- 6:00 pm Jen Curfman and Heidi Marble, Sisters, "Skin Tight Genes"
- 7:10 pm Conclusion and Prize Drawing

Call 1.866.COVENANT (268.3626) to RSVP. Please have full name, address and email addresses of all attending or go to www.covenanthealthcare.com to register. Space is limited.

Sisters Heidi and Jen

COVENANT
Cancer Care Center

Just when the caterpillar thought the world was over,
it became a butterfly. – PROVERB

Heidi and Jen use a special form of artwork to draw attention and raise money for people afflicted with cancer. Heidi takes broken and unused jewelry from cancer survivors and those interested in the cause to create life forms that tell a story.

Let's create something out of nothing – help us make a work of art out of that single earring or broken pin. Bring in your old buttons, jewelry and other items to make our pink ribbon cut-out sparkle!

